Hail Insurance Short Date Cancellation

Purpose

- Producers with Hail Insurance may cancel their coverage and receive a refund of a portion or all of their hail premium, as set forth in the Short Date Cancellation Table (on opposite side). This provision allows producers to cancel Hail Insurance for acres that suffer an early season loss due to conditions such as frost or excess moisture that makes the crop non-viable.

Eligibility

Annual Application

- Producers who make an annual Hail Insurance application may cancel their Hail Insurance for any reason, provided no hail losses were paid on these acres and the crop was not harvested or put to an alternate use.

Continuous Hail Insurance Option (CHIO)

- Producers participating in CHIO can only cancel Hail Insurance if the acres are non-viable and have been appraised by MASC and subsequently destroyed.
- Crops that are harvested or put to alternate use are not eligible for a short date cancellation.
- Acres destroyed as part of a reseed or Stage 1 claim (prior to June 20) are not charged premiums under CHIO unless there was a payable hail claim prior to destruction.

Other Program Information

- In order to receive a Hail Insurance indemnity, there must be sufficient crop production potential prior to the occurrence of the loss.
- If a viable crop is not present (total acres or a portion of the field), the insured should contact their local MASC Insurance Agent as soon as possible to initiate the Hail Short Date Cancellation process.

Notification

- Producers must notify their MASC Insurance office in writing (in person, by fax or by mail).
- It is important that written notification is provided as early as possible, as the premium earned increases on a daily basis.
- If notification is mailed, the dated post mark will be used as the cancellation date.
- If notification is given in person or by fax, the actual date of receipt will be used.
- Hail Short Date Cancellation forms are available from your MASC Insurance office.

Example:

A producer insures 200 acres of oats at the $160 per acre coverage level. The Hail Insurance premium is $3 per acre for a total of $600.

In July, excess moisture destroys the entire crop. On July 10, the insured contacts his Insurance office to cancel his Hail Insurance as he wants to work the field.

On July 10, hail premiums are deemed to be 30% earned (see table on opposite page).

Premium refund:

= $600 x 70%
= $420
